

Environmental Policy

Abbey House Veterinary Hospital is a small animal veterinary practice which provides all aspects of veterinary care, including first opinion and referral services. At Abbey House we set our own very high standards which are authenticated by the Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons (RCVS) inspection where we reached the highest tier 3 accreditation at the hospital in Morley. Abbey House Veterinary Hospital recognises that all industries impact on the environment in different ways including air and water emissions, use of raw materials and waste generation.

Our company is committed to reducing our impact and strives to continually improve sustainability locally and in the wider environment. Our environmental commitment can be demonstrated in our established objectives and goals listed below:

- Compliance with all applicable standards, laws, requirements and regulations
- Reducing waste and carbon emission by minimising consumption of raw materials, recycling and redesigning our systems
- Implementing water and energy conservation techniques
- Making our progress accountable and available for assessment by Investors in the environment (IIE)
- Setting targets annually to assess improvements in consumption objectively
- Minimising unsustainable transport use
- Working with suppliers to ensure they acknowledge and decrease the environmental impact of their products and transportation

We will continue to improve our environmental management system through annual reviews and updates, taking into account any changes within legislation, our organisation, and other factors. We will convey this policy to all our employees and make certain that they are provided with proper training to increase awareness of environmental matters.

Daisy Copley, lead vet for clinical projects, has a designated responsibility for the day-to-day implementation of this policy.

Abbey House Veterinary Hospital will make this policy available when requested to interested parties including members of the public, including making a copy available on the Abbey House's website and it shall be reviewed annually as part of our management plan.
